LA COUNTY RELEASES PROPOSAL TO RESTORE STREAM FLOW AT BOUQUET CANYON CREEK

A proposal to restore stream flow and habitat to sections of Bouquet Canyon Creek will be released Friday for a 30-day public review period.

The plan outlines five sites that would be restored along a three-mile stretch of the creek south of Bouquet Canyon Reservoir. These locations have been affected by built-up sediment and vegetation that have in recent years impeded the flow of the water course. A sixth site would create a fish preserve at the abandoned Zuni Campground site.

LA County Public Works has prepared an environmental document referred to as an Initial Study and Mitigated Negative Declaration (MND) to address how local impacts could be mitigated. The draft study and MND are being circulated for a 30-day public review period, August 5 through September 4.
